Finding My Frequency: Confronting Personal Ableism and Empowering Communication

Thursday, March 27, 9:45 am–10:30 am

In a world designed for those who hear, deaf and hard of hearing individuals often navigate a landscape shaped by ableism. “Finding My Frequency,” will explore my journey of recognizing and overcoming internalized biases while embracing my identity as a deaf audiologist. We’ll delve into how personal ableism intersects with broader societal challenges, impacting self-perception, communication, and access to opportunities. Through personal examples and practical strategies, this session will empower participants to challenge ableist norms, advocate for inclusivity, and find their own frequency.
